No more steamers will go to the Clondyke country until next June. This is because it is unsafe to go later in the season than this. Notwithstanding this well advertised fact the mad rush for the new Eldorado continues and as many as can will make the trip overland. The craze has spread to every quarter of the country, and the number to essay the journey can only be estimated, but it will be very large. The next stage of the drama will doubtless be stories of privation, suffering and death, worse perhaps in degree than the experiences incident to other gold excitements in the northstill have in our midst.

The United States' Marshalship for Utah has been secured by Glen Miller, the rustling real estate man of Salt Lake. The office is not nearly so remunerative under statehood as it was under territorial rule, yet from the peculiar conditions existing in that State it can be made a fine berth. The appointment is HE Freudenthal .. said to give general satisfaction.

A week ago yesterday Mrs. Jos. E. Smith was killed, and Mrs. Amelia Webster sustained a broken leg and other injuries, in the mountains just east of Cedar, Utah, by the giving way of a brake beam on a wagon loaded with timbers, in going down a long dugway.

The rush to the Clondyke continues. Over 12,000 persons gathered at the wharves in San Francisco last week to witness the departure of the last steamer for the north. It was loaded to its utmost capacity with both passengers and freight.

Colorado, Montana and Idaho are enforcing the anti gambling laws and general trouble exists in the ranks of the sporting fraternity. At Leadville, thousands of dollars worth of paraphernalia which had been seized by the authorities, was ordered burned a week ago.

RAILROAD WRECK NEAR RENO.

Worst In The History of The Road. One of the worst wrecks in the history of the Central Pacific road occurred at 9:48 last Wednesday morning on what is known as the twenty- General Merchandise five mile hill, about six miles west of Reno. The engine was overturned and thrown on one side of the track, and the tender on the other, and the road littered with the debris of baggage, express and mail cars, reduced to kindling wood. There were no fatalities except that of Indians, who were riding on the blind baggage to the number of nearly all the balance more or less injured. Fireman Rollins was thrown from the engine on his head and sustained considerable injury, but pronounced to be not in a serious condition by the doctors.

Engineer Irwin was also thrown from his engine, unhurt, except a slight sprain of his back.

The train was a double-header and the first engine went over all right. This engine went on to Verdi and from there a dispatch was sent to Reno and Wadsworth for doctors and a wrecking car. An engine and flat car, went out from Reno to the scene of the wreck in a very few minutes with doctors, and section men, and a wrecking car from Wadsworth was on hand about 12
